What is Municipal Housing?

市営住宅とは

Municipal Housing is a facility built by a large amount of city duty and the national grant with the purpose of offering cheaper rent for low-income people who have financial difficulty in living. In other words, it is for low income people to live in the facilities with cheaper rent by having all citizens bear a part of expenses.

For living in the facilities, laws (the Act on Public Housing) or ordinances (the establishment and management of Anjo City Municipal Housing) stated by Diet and city council are applied. This booklet is prepared based on those regulations.

As you move-in to the housing, there will be new rules and agreements toward usage and management of public spaces since municipal housing is cooperative housing. It is important to discuss basic rules among the tenants, to cooperate with each other, to observe the regulations, and to maintain a good environment for living in the municipal housing.

家賃の計算方法 RENT CALCULATION METHOD

The maximum rent is settled to be same price of neighborhood rent (market rent = calculated according to country method to be as same as private housing), and it is determined by family members income, location, scale, lapse of years after construction and etc. (The rent changes every year).

[Rent Calculation Method] [家賃算出方法]

$$\text{Rent} = \text{Basic Amount of Rent} \times \text{Location Coefficient} \times \text{Scale Coefficient} \times \text{Year of Lapse Coefficient} \times \text{Accessibility Coefficient}$$

Basic Amount of Rent is decided by the Monthly income, which is calculated by the Monthly Earns Calculating Method (see page 17). Then, it is multiplied by Location Coefficient, Scale Coefficient, Year of Lapse Coefficient, and Accessibility Coefficient, and its total is the rent. Also, Monthly Income, Basic amount of Rent, and all coefficients alter every year.

[Income Division Table]

Income Division	Monthly Income (¥/yen)		Basic amount of Rent (¥/yen)
I	0~104,000		34,400
II	104,001~123,000		39,700
III	123,001~139,000		45,400
IV	139,001~158,000		51,200
V	158,001~186,000	Only for discretionary family (see page 2 and 3).	58,500
VI	186,001~214,000		67,500
VII	214,001~259,000	Not possible to apply.	79,000
VIII	259,001~		91,100

Location Coefficient . . . . . Anjo city: 0.85

Scale Coefficient . . . . . Scale of house ÷ 65m<sup>2</sup>

Year of Lapse Coefficient . . . 1-0.0039×year after construction (except wooden housings)

Accessibility Coefficient . . . . Accessibility within 1.3~0.5 from the housing

● Rent for those who exceed the conventional income and had a high income. (収入超過者・高額所得者の家賃について)

For those who have been living in the housing for less than 3 years and have a monthly income under the specific sum of money according the Act on Public Housing, the rent is calculated by the original method (mentioned above).

For those who have been living in the housing for more than 3 years and exceed the conventional income (more than ¥158,000 or ¥214,000 for discretionary family), the rent is determined by its income as the maximum amount up to similar amount to neighborhood housings.

If the person lives in the housing more than 5 years and is accredited as high-income (more than ¥313, 000 for 2 consecutive years), we will ask to leave the apartment. In this case, the person has to pay twice the rent based on a similar amount to neighborhood housings after the expiration date.

収入基準 CONVENTIONAL INCOME

《Monthly Earnings Calculating Method》・《収入月額の算出の方法》

"Monthly Earnings", the basis for the decision of rental qualification, is calculated according to the regulations of country or city, not applied to the regular salary.

Calculate the monthly earnings of your household according to the order of followings steps:

- ① The subject of total amount of annual net income includes all applied family members.
- ② Add it up after subtracting the individual special deduction from each total amount of annual net income.
- ③ General deduction and other special deduction are subtracted from the total sum, then it is divided into 12 to calculate the monthly earnings.

《Calculation Method 1》・《算式1》

Total amount of annual earnings	Individual special deduction		General Deduction	+	Other special deductions
Amount figured out from Chart 1	Single parent ¥350,000 Widow ¥270,000 Income deduction ¥100,000	-	¥380,000 × number of cohabitant/dependant		Disabled person      ¥270,000 Exceptional disabled person      ¥400,000 Over 16 to under 23 years old      ¥250,000 Elderly dependant      ¥100,000	÷ 12
If 2 or more person earn the income, the amount should be add up after calculate individually. (minus is considered as 0)

Application is allowed when the calculation result of monthly earnings is less than ¥158,000. (For discretionary family, it is less than ¥214,000 (see page2 3-③)).

Classification	Monthly Net Income	Classification	Monthly Net Income
I	0 ~ 104,000	IV	139,001 ~ 158,000
II	104,001 ~ 123,000	V	158,001 ~ 186,000
III	123,001 ~ 139,000	VI	186,001 ~ 214,000

Only for discretionary family

●About Chart Classification (表中の区分について)

Classification①...Only Discretionary Family corresponds to it. For more details see page 2, item4-③.

Classification②...General households other than mentioned above corresponds to it.

●Clarifying the Words (言葉の説明)

Annual Earnings...It is a total income or public pension of the year including the tax, which applies "Total Amount of Payment", shiharaikingaku, of your Certificate of Income and Withholding Tax, gensen choshu-hyo.

Annual Income...For employed person or pensioner, it refers to chart 1 (see next page) based on the total amount of annual income, which applies "Amount after deduction", kyuyoshotoku koujyo-go no kingaku, of gensen choshu-hyo. For self-employed person, it is the balance of gross income that remains after deducting related costs and expenses based on Tax Law.

※ If you have got or changed your jobs since January 2th the last year, we calculate your net income by estimating your recent situations.
